The election filed December 6, 2004 has been entered and made of record as paper no. 1204.

Applicant's election of group I (claims 1-11) in the reply filed on December 6, 2004 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ghoshal.

Ghoshal discloses in figure 5 a multistage thermalelectric cooler, each stage of the multistage cooler arranged with a Peltier device ((510, 520, 530) interposed between an intermediate heat sink and an intermediate cold sink. Since the Peltier devices are made of semiconductor material which has a resistance, a voltage drop is inherently exhibited in the Peltier device.

In re claim 2, the multistage cooler in Ghoshal effects heat transfer from the cold sink to the hot sink.

In re claims 3 and 4, line 51 of column 1 of Ghoshal discloses lead telluride and bismuth telluride.

In re claim 5, the intermediate heat sink of stage n in Ghoshal is an intermediate cold sink of stage n-1.

In re claim 6, electrons in Ghoshal are inherently transferred from intermediate cold sink to an intermediate hot sink.

In re claims 7-9, the Peltier device in Ghoshal is made of n-type and p-type semiconductor material as shown in figures 2 and 3.

In re claim 10, the thermal cooler in Ghoshal is formed in an array.

In re claim 11, no patentable weight is given to the process of making because a "product by process" claim is directed to the product per se, no matter how actually made, In re Hirao, 190 USPQ 15 at 17(footnote 3). See also In re Brown, 173 USPQ 685; In re Luck, 177 USPQ 523; In re Fessmann, 180 USPQ 324; In re Avery, 186 USPQ 161; In re Wertheim, 191 USPQ 90 (209 USPQ 554 does not deal with this issue); In re Marosi et al, 218 USPQ 289; and particularly In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964, all of which make it clear that it is the patentability of the final product per se which must be determined in a "product by process" claim, and not the patentability of the process, and that an old or obvious product produced by a new method is not patentable as a product, whether claimed in "product by process" claims or not. Note that applicant has the burden of proof in such cases, as the above caselaw makes clear.

The other references are cited to show other structures pertinent to Applicants' disclosure.

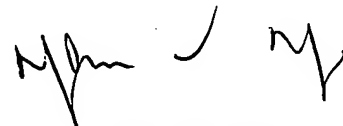

Paper copies of cited U.S. patents and U.S. patent application publications will cease to be mailed to applicants with Office actions as of June 2004. Paper copies of foreign patents and non-patent literature will continue to be included with office actions.
